TO THE BUSINESS CLUB:

I apologize for the van problems, my frustration, and other inconveniences on our trip to Washington. Thank you for your help and understanding attitude. You are an incredible group of adults and I am proud to be associated with you. I learned much about myself on the trip--particularly about what great fun and trust a faculty member can share with students. I appreciate your concern for me and our inconveniences. I really did enjoy our trip and I hope you had fun too. Remembering your support on this trip, I would accompany you nearly anywhere. So let's not permit some past problems dampen our future enthusiasm. Let us begin planning our spring trip to the New York Stock Exchange

Bless you all and let's go for it.

Gratefully,
Greg Barnes
